About Kevin

Kevin Eikenberry is a speaker, trainer, consultant, author, and entrepreneur who lives with his family in Indianapolis, Indiana. Kevin is also a proud alumnus of Purdue University.

Upon graduation from Purdue, Kevin began his professional career with Chevron Chemical Company, where he held a number of sales, marketing, training, and consulting positions. In 1993, he formed his own training and consulting organization, now known as The Kevin Eikenberry Group.

The Kevin Eikenberry Group is a learning consulting company that provides services including training delivery and design, facilitation, performance coaching, organizational consulting and speaking services.

As a speaker, Kevin gives keynotes for organizations and non-profit groups on life-long learning, developing human potential, teams and teamwork, creativity and more. He has delivered keynote speeches across the United States and Canada, presenting in front of small intimate groups to audiences of 1,000 or more.

Beyond customizing each talk to fit your needs, Kevin can design follow up to maximize your investment. Because of his passion for creating results, not just speeches, Kevin can work with you to design ways to help the lessons of the speech create real improvement.

Kevin's students and clients consistently rave about his effectiveness, many calling him "the best trainer I've ever experienced."

Kevin is a contributing author of the best-selling book, Walking with the Wise (Mentors Press 2003) and has been a contributor to ten Training and Development Sourcebooks since 1997. He publishes four email-based publications read by more than 100,000 people worldwide.

Kevin's goal is to reach organizations and individuals who believe in the power of action - organizations and individuals who are passionate about succeeding at their highest level.

“Extraordinary potential exists in each of us. With the right environment, resources, skills and knowledge, ‘ordinary’ people can produce extraordinary results.”

- Kevin Eikenberry, President of The Kevin Eikenberry Group

What Kevin's Clients Say

One of the best ways to understand the essence of Kevin is to listen to his Clients. The Kevin Eikenberry Group can provide you with names and numbers of Clients you may talk with to discuss Kevin's strengths and capabilities.

Interactive - “We needed someone who could interact with our management team and relate to the needs of our hourly employees. We were looking for someone who could motivate and inspire involvement and participation in our training sessions. With Kevin we received all this and more.”

- David Shinkle, Training Manager Argosy Casino & Hotel

Valuable - “Kevin's impact on the skill level of our employees has been substantial and enduring long after he's gone.”

- Janice Beer, Director of People Potential, A&W Canada

Memorable - “It is so easy to walk away from a great seminar and never use the information. You motivated me to apply learnings from the class. Thanks for providing a wonderful educational opportunity for me Kevin.”

- Lisa Humphrey, Performance Improvement, TriHealth

Fun - “As a former corporate wienie, I've been through at least a zillion of these types of events, but Kevin's presentation was one of the very best I've ever participated in! Learned a lot, had fun, and enjoyed working with the other participants. It does not get much better than that!”

- John Murray, Board Member, Cherryland Electric Co-op, Wolverine Power Co-op

Customized - “Just a note to thank you for your participation as our speaker at the InfoConnection Fall Event! Everything about working with you was wonderful – from your flexibility to customize the talk to our desires to delivering a useful and inspiring message to all present. The planning team appreciates your attitude and willingness to do whatever you could to make our event a success – which it certainly was!”

- Brad D. Schildknecht, Chairman, InfoConnection

Client Relationships

Since our professional lives take a large portion of our time, that time should be spent with people we like and can learn from. Kevin strives to create relationships and partnerships with our Clients that he can learn from as well as teach. This approach forges relationships and creates great business results.

“2003 marked a year of tremendous change for our team. Kevin challenged us to identify our strengths and use them to WOW our clients in the coming year. The session was interactive, full of energy and jam-packed with ahas. Kevin's ability to connect with team members heightened the quality of the learning experience and resulted in major breakthroughs for every member of the team. For our team, learning with Kevin resulted in a highly connected, more productive and motivated team that was ready to make it happen!”
